

Audio wiring cabinet wiring price

Article Overview

Home audio cabinet wiring typically costs between $150 and $1,200+, depending on complexity, materials, and labor.

Typical Cost Ranges

- Basic repairs or reconnections: $150-$900, covering tasks like reconnecting loose wires or replacing damaged connectors .
- Extensive internal rerouting or cabinet modifications: $1,200 or more, especially if cables must be concealed or specialty AV wires are used .
- Per-unit wiring costs: $2-$6 per linear foot for standard wiring, with higher rates for shielded or specialty AV cables .

Factors Affecting Price

- Labor: Technician rates typically range from $75-$125 per hour, with more complex installations requiring additional time .
- Wiring type: Standard unshielded speaker wire is cheaper, while HDMI, shielded, or power-qualified AV cables increase costs .
- Accessibility: Cabinets with difficult access or behind-wall runs require more labor and may need specialty clips or fixtures .
- Scope of work: Adding new connections, multi-zone setups, or integrating control systems can significantly increase costs .
- Location: Urban areas often have higher labor rates and material costs compared to rural regions .
