

Circular Fiber Optic Cold Connector

Article Overview

Circular fiber optic cold connectors are rugged, sealed connectors designed to maintain reliable optical performance in extreme low-temperature and harsh environments.

Overview

Circular fiber optic connectors are designed for high-performance optical interconnects in industries such as aerospace, military, marine, broadcast, and cryogenic applications . They feature a round, compact form factor that allows for easy integration into equipment and cabling systems while providing robust mechanical protection.

Key Features

- Extreme Environment Compatibility: Many circular connectors, such as the Fischer FiberOptic Series, operate effectively at cryogenic temperatures with minimal impact on insertion and return losses, making them suitable for applications like LNG pipelines or scientific experiments .
- Sealing and Durability: These connectors often have IP68 (mated) and IP67 (unmated) ratings, ensuring protection against dust, fluids, and harsh environmental conditions .
- Rugged Construction: Military-grade connectors, including MIL-PRF-28876 and M28876 derived types, incorporate anti-vibration mechanisms, ceramic ferrules, and alignment sleeves to maintain signal integrity under shock and vibration .
- Field-Termination and Maintenance: Some connectors are field-terminable, allowi...
