Overview

These include: Uncoilers, which handle the initial feeding of steel coils; Leveling Machines, ensuring flat material for consistent forming; Slitting Lines, precisely cutting the material to width; Forming Machines (roll formers), bending the steel into the desired tray shape;. These include: Uncoilers, which handle the initial feeding of steel coils; Leveling Machines, ensuring flat material for consistent forming; Slitting Lines, precisely cutting the material to width; Forming Machines (roll formers), bending the steel into the desired tray shape;. Here is the comprehensive, industry-standard cable tray manufacturing process and step-by-step production flow that guarantees high-performance electrical containment systems. Before diving into the machinery, it is important to understand why the production flow matters. It begins with raw material input, usually galvanized steel or stainless steel coils. These coils are then uncoiled and flattened through a leveling machine. Next, the material is slit to the required width for the tray. Our advanced cable tray production line is engineered to provide automated forming, punching, and cutting processes for various types of cable trays, including perforated, ladder, and solid-bottom trays.
