

Norwegian cabinet manufacturer

Article Overview

Norway offers a range of cabinet manufacturers, from traditional wood craftsmanship to industrial and aluminium cabinets, catering to both residential and professional needs.

Traditional Wood Cabinets

Hamran is a renowned Norwegian company specializing in tailored kitchens and interiors, emphasizing high-quality wood and craftsmanship since 1930. Their kitchens are designed to last a lifetime, with a focus on natural materials and heritage-inspired designs . Norsk Wood Works offers traditional Scandinavian cabinets, often featuring hand-carved panels, frame and panel doors, and hand-cut dovetail joints. They specialize in late 1800s Norwegian styles and produce unique pieces such as full-size hutches ("Fram Skap") and corner cabinets, using woods like butternut, basswood, and white pine .

Industrial and Aluminium Cabinets

Hydal AS manufactures aluminium and stainless steel cabinets, including double-walled models for outdoor use and specialized enclosures for electronics. Established in 1977, Hydal focuses on high-quality surface treatments and custom production to meet industrial and electrical requirements . Stansefabrikken is a leading supplier of electrical cabinets in Norway, offering a broad range of solutions including traditional fuse boxes ("Nebbskap") and modern "Elektro line" cabinets. Their products emphasize flexibility, user-friendliness, and competitive pricing, serving both industrial and commercial sectors
