

South African FRP Cable Tray Price Inquiry

Article Overview

FRP cable trays in South Africa typically cost between ZAR 500 and ZAR 2,500 per meter, depending on type, size, and specifications.

Cost Overview

The price of Fiberglass Reinforced Plastic (FRP) cable trays varies widely based on several factors:

- Type of tray: Perforated trays (ventilated for airflow) are generally less expensive than solid-bottom trays, which provide maximum cable protection and EMI/RFI shielding . Channel-type trays for small cable loads are usually the most affordable.
- Size and load capacity: Wider trays or those designed to support heavier cable loads cost more due to increased material usage and structural strength requirements .
- Material quality: High-grade FRP with superior corrosion, chemical, and moisture resistance commands higher prices, especially for industrial or chemical plant applications .
- Customization and design: Tailor-made trays for specific projects, such as tunnels, bridges, or substations, can increase costs due to specialized manufacturing .
