

Which company makes the best American-made ladder-shaped cable trays

Article Overview

US Tray (Atkore) and MP Husky are widely recognized as top American manufacturers of high-quality ladder-shaped cable trays.

Leading Manufacturers

US Tray (Atkore) is a premier American manufacturer specializing in made-to-order ladder cable trays built to NEMA standards and UL-certified. Their products are designed for durability, corrosion resistance, and ease of installation, with aluminum being a preferred material for lightweight strength and long-term performance. US Tray emphasizes compliance with Buy America and Buy American requirements, making it a trusted choice for domestic projects and industrial applications . MP Husky is another leading U.S. manufacturer with over 55 years of experience. They produce ladder cable trays in aluminum, galvanized steel, stainless steel, and fiberglass, meeting or exceeding NEMA, UL, CTI, and CSA standards. MP Husky is known for reliability, strength, and innovative designs, making their ladder trays suitable for a wide range of industries, including commercial, industrial, and utility sectors . Other notable American manufacturers include Legrand North America and Thomas & Betts, which offer ladder cable trays alongside other cable management solutions. These companies provide NEMA- and UL-compliant products with a focus on long-term durability and ease of installation .
